

THE CHICAGO (FOOTNOTE) REFERENCING SYSTEM

INTRODUCTION TO THE CHICAGO SYSTEM

This is a brief guide to the Chicago System which will cover the majority of referencing types required by students of St. Michael's College. A link to a more comprehensive guide to the Chicago System can be found at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Writing Center, (also recommended by the University of South Australia).

If unsure which system you should use, use the Harvard System.

It is most important that you understand when and why you must reference your assignments; if you are unsure read the introduction to referencing first.

Remember footnotes must be used whenever you use ideas, words or data from any other source. This includes, not only direct quotes, but also putting someone else's ideas into your own words.

The Chicago System consists of:

- footnotes at the bottom of each page of your work, separated from the text by a typed line
- a reference list at the end of the assignment - alphabetically arranged with full details for each of the sources you have cited in footnotes
- large assignments may also include a bibliography - an alphabetically arranged list of all works consulted in the process of preparing your assignment. (Thus a bibliography will repeat all items included in the reference list and will also include additional items consulted but not cited in footnotes).

FOOTNOTES

1 2

Material in the text to which footnotes refer should be numbered with superscript, (raised slightly above the line of text), Arabic numerals (, , etc.).

These numerals should be placed without intervening space at the close of the sentence, paragraph or quotation.

Example:

1
It has been suggested that this is a significant problem.

The numbers should continue in numerical order consecutively throughout your essay. In the footnote use the same number, (but not in superscript).

The first reference (or citing) of a source in a footnote requires full detail, as well as page numbers for printed resources:

- author's name, (note that in references only the author's first name or initials are entered first)
- title, (in italics or underlined if handwritten)
- publisher,
- place of publication,
- year of publication, (the latest edition that you referred to, or the most recent update indicated on a website)
- page numbers (if appropriate)

THE CHICAGO (FOOTNOTE) REFERENCING SYSTEM

Example:

1. Arthur E. Adams , Imperial Russia after 1861, Heath, Boston, 1965, p. 92

Second and subsequent notes don't require the same detail. Using the author's name, and page number is sufficient if it clearly identifies the text. (Thus if there were two titles by the same author title would still have to be included.)

Example:

2. Adams, p. 102

Alternatively you can use latin abbreviations for second and subsequent entries:

ibid. = same as last entry (ie when 2 entries in a row are from the same source).

op. cit. = as previously cited (ie if full details of the source have been given earlier. Other details such as the author's name will have to be included to make the source clear.)

Example:

1. Arthur E. Adams , Imperial Russia after 1861, Heath, Boston, 1965, p. 92
2. ibid., p.71
3. L. Kirkwood et al. , Accounting; an introductory perspective, Longman Cheshire, Melbourne, 1992
4. Adams, op. cit. p. 124

THE CHICAGO (FOOTNOTE) REFERENCING SYSTEM

A reference list is included at the end of the assignment. It is alphabetically arranged with full details for each of the sources you have cited in footnotes.

Large assignments may also include a bibliography - an alphabetically arranged list of all works consulted in the process of preparing your assignment. (Thus a bibliography will repeat all items included in the reference list and will also include additional items consulted but not cited in footnotes).

What information should be included?

In books and periodicals the information required will usually be found on the title page and verso, (the reverse side of the title page). Details that should be included, the order in which they should be arranged and some examples are set out below.

- Consistency in arrangement of the information, as well as punctuation is most important.

BOOKS	1. Author(s) / Editor(s) (surname then initials) 2. Book title (italicised, underlined if handwritten), 3. Publisher, 4. Place of publication, 5. Year of publication.
Single author	Adams, Arthur E., Imperial Russia after 1861 , Heath, Boston, 1965.
Two authors	Barnes, Thomas & Cameron, Rondo , Cataloguing for fun and profit , Smith, Adelaide, 1992.
Three authors	Brooks, Robert, Learmonth, Mark & Thackeray, John , Chemistry for year 11 , Longman Cheshire, Melbourne, 1984.
Four or more authors (et al. means "& others")	Kirkwood, L. et al., Accounting; an introductory perspective , Longman Cheshire, Melbourne, 1992.
MAGAZINE or NEWSPAPER ARTICLE	1. Author(s) (if author unidentified use 'title' in single quotation marks) 2. 'Article title' , (in single quotation marks) 3. Magazine or Newspaper title , (italicised, underlined if handwritten) 4. date of edition , (or edition details, eg volume and number) 5. Year of publication, 6. page numbers.
MAGAZINE	McKernan, Michael, 'Turning the heart into stone' Eureka Street , Vol. 4 No.9, November, 1994, pp.18-21.
MAGAZINE	Neale, Robin , 'Dial a legal eagle' The Bulletin , February 9, 2003, p. 31.

THE CHICAGO (FOOTNOTE) REFERENCING SYSTEM

NEWSPAPERS - no author	'Microsoft target marketplace enquiry by T.P.C.' The Australian , March 14, 1995, p. 45.
ENCYCLOPAEDIA or other REFERENCE BOOKS	1. Author(s) (if author unidentified use 'title' in single quotation marks) 2. 'Article title', (in single quotation marks) 3. Reference book title (italicised, underlined if handwritten) 4. volume number, 5. Publisher, 6. Place of publication, 7. Year of publication, 8. page number.
ENCYCLOPAEDIA	Wertheim, Albert , 'Globe theatre' The world book encyclopedia , vol. 8, World Book Inc., Chicago, 2003, pp. 233-234.
CD-ROM	1. Author(s), (if author unidentified use 'title' in single quotation marks) 2. 'Title' of article, 3. Title of CD-ROM, (italicised, underlined if handwritten) 3. Format (i.e. CD-ROM) 4. Publisher, 5. Place of publication, 6. year of publication. (if identified)
CD-ROM	'Nuclear test-ban treaty', , Britannica CD Version 97 , CD-ROM, Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc., Chicago, 1997.
CD-ROM	'China / way of life', The World Book Multimedia Encyclopaedia , CD ROM, World Book Inc., Chicago, 2001.
WORLD WIDE WEB (Internet)	1. Author(s), (if author unidentified use 'title' in single quotation marks) 2. 'Title' of article/site, 3. Publisher, (if identified) 4. Place of publication, (if identified) 5. year of publication, (if identified) 6. Internet (i.e. how you accessed it) 6. Address 5. Date viewed
WORLD WIDE WEB SITE (Internet) - with author	Hodge, Amanda , 'State rivalries likely to defeat river-flow plan', The Australian , 11 March, 2002, Internet, < http://www.theaustralian.news.com.au/common/story_page/.html > viewed 14 November 2003.

THE CHICAGO (FOOTNOTE) REFERENCING SYSTEM

WORLD WIDE WEB SITE (Internet) - no author or other information	'Ash Wednesday', Internet, http://home.vicnet.net.au/~flemrw/liz/ash_wednesday2.html , viewed 30 Oct. 2003.
FULL TEXT ONLINE DATABASE (e.g. Electric Library)	Lalor, Peter , 'Waugh's war for advertising on bat' The Advertiser May 26, 2001 p. 3, Electric Library, viewed 30 May 2001.
VIDEO or FILM	1. Title (italicised, underlined if handwritten) 2. format (video recording or motion picture) 3. Producer 4. Place of production (if known) 5. Year of production or Date broadcast (if applicable)
VIDEO	Media watch , video recording, ABC Television, October 20, 2003.
FILM	Rabbit proof fence , motion picture, Australian Film Finance Corp. Ltd., Australia, 2002.