

BIBLIOGRAPHY & REFERENCE LIST

(HARVARD SYSTEM)

What is a bibliography?

A bibliography is a list of all resources consulted in researching a work. A reference list only includes sources actually used and referred to in a work. A bibliography or reference list must be included at the end of every assignment where any type of research of other works has been done.

- The list is arranged alphabetically by the first part of the details for each resource, (often the author's surname).

What information should be included?

In books and periodicals the information required will usually be found on the title page and verso, (the reverse side of the title page). Details that should be included, the order in which they should be arranged and some examples are set out below.

- Consistency in arrangement of the information, as well as punctuation is most important.
